

My dear friend Henry:

As I have not time conveniently to fill a sheet, and as you and George are one, in spirit, in zeal, and in action, I venture to devote this page to you.

On the present occasion especially, - expecting soon to leave my native land, - it is incumbent on me to renew, in behalf of my partner and myself, the expressions of our gratitude for the multitude of favors you have bestowed upon us. As an agent for the Liberator, your services have been rendered with a disinterestedness, a promptitude and an efficiency, which merit a nobler acknowledgment than we ~~can~~ make. We know that you do not desire even the smallest declaration of thankfulness; but we should betray a hardened and selfish spirit not to make so small a return as this.

If you happen to see my much respected friend James Scott, tell him I am truly obliged to him for sending the pieces written by several members of the Female Anti-Slavery Society. They shall be published without fail, although they may be delayed articles.

Give my friendly and grateful remembrances to Mr. Prentice. He ranks high on my list of friends. Also to Messrs. Brewer, Chace, Potter, &c.

Mr. Ladd, on his return from Providence, told me of his interview with you and George. He is a good-natured man, but somewhat superficial.

In a great hurry, I remain,

Yours, faithfully,

Wm. Lloyd Garrison.
